

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A voltage regulator having a plurality of current sources and adapted to make available current to a circuit, such as a memory device. One or more of the plurality of current sources is selectively enabled/disabled to provide either of two non-zero, distinct current levels to the circuit depending on a logic value of the chip enable signal. The chip enable signal is input to the circuit to enable/disable the circuit to perform various operations.